

Exceptional Management Consultants Needed

Help the Nation Recover from 2017's Hurricanes

Hagerty Consulting (www.hagertyconsulting.com) is one of the nation's leading emergency management consulting firms. Known for its public spirit, innovative thinking, problem solving, and exceptional people, Hagerty is sought after to work on some of the largest, most complex, emergency management issues related to housing disaster victims, rebuilding communities, obtaining billion-dollar federal loans and grants, and creating more resilient cities. Due to what may arguably be the nation's worst natural disaster, Hagerty is currently recruiting the following types of professionals:

- Management Consultants
- Accountants, CPAs, Data Analysts, and Grant Managers
- Community Planners and City Management Experts
- Housing Specialists
- Insurance Specialists
- Infrastructure Specialists (Engineering, Architecture, Construction Management, Cost Estimating)
- HUD CDBG Specialists
- FEMA Public Assistance and Hazard Mitigation Specialists
- Project Management Professionals

Requirements: We will consider recent graduates through senior professionals with 40+ years of experience. You must have: a history of achievement academically and professionally; strong core competencies, including attention to detail, excellent judgement, professionalism, as well as strong analysis, logical reasoning, oral and written communication, and problem-solving skills. Additionally, you must be highly flexible and able to work effectively on teams, take direction, and show initiative. If you're applying for a technical or programmatic area, you must demonstrate technical and programmatic knowledge, achievement, and depth. To the extent possible, we prefer candidates from the affected disaster areas. Official travel may be authorized for candidates that meet client/firm requirements. Candidates must be available on short notice for deployment and willing to see the project through duration.

Job Description: Selected candidates will be assigned to work on one of the key recovery missions including housing, infrastructure, or grants. Our clients include federal, state, and local partners. You will work in a demanding, dynamic, and challenging environment, under tight deadlines, and, at times, with limited oversight.

This opportunity is open to candidates that desire either full-time employment with benefits or independent contract work paid at a competitive hourly rate. Must be eligible to work in the United States and be able to successfully complete a background and criminal history check.

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter (including salary expectation and geographic preference) and resume using the Apply Now button.
